

Creating Anti-Racist Storytimes: Activism, Belonging, and Change Workshop

In this workshop, librarian and literacy activism expert Janet Damon shows you how you can use storytime programs to help facilitate an anti-racist environment in your community. You will learn how to share and discuss stories that help parents and children talk about race, identity, and belonging in age-appropriate ways. You'll also explore authentic examples of programming and learn ways to begin your own anti-racist and anti-biased storytimes for children and families.

By participating in this workshop, participants will:

- Learn ways to design and promote anti-racist/anti-biased storytime events
- Connect activities with stories that help families and children talk about race, identity, and belonging
- Explore authentic examples of programming and get ideas for beginning their own journey

Presented by : Janet Damon, Library Services Specialist, Denver Public Schools and the founder of Afros and Books.

Janet Damon YouTube

Page: https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCtsDiIM0_EwgfwnDnp1AVyQ

News articles:

<https://red.msudenver.edu/2020/changing-lives-one-page-at-a-time.html>

<https://jeffcolibrary.org/news/learn-how-to-talk-to-your-kids-about-race/>